After John Grey got a call from his ex-wife Amanda to come because of a particular discovery of a historical artifact, he rushed to her archaeological museum and it appears she has disappeared. Looking for Amanda, John comes into contact with various artifacts which all seem to have mysterious powers. In his quest, he is aided by taxi driver Jim Webb, Dr. Jessica Johnson and her brother Inspector Jeremiah Johnson. John brings them to a remote, deserted church in Hvalsey, Greenland, Ayers Rock in Australia, Easter Island and Stonsenge. What happened to the missing crew of the Mary Celeste in 1872 and what does that have to do with the disappearance of Amanda? Who are the mysterious Naviri and why does the NSA also want the artifacts? Will he ever find Amanda? Australia, Easter Island and Stonsenge. What happened to the missing crew of the Mary Celeste in 1872 and what does that have to do with the disappearance of Amanda? Who are the mysterious Naviri and why does the NSA also want the artifacts? Will he ever find Amanda?

Top American journalist Julie Somers has been sent to the town of Moon in England to investigate the mysterious simultaneous deaths of five elderly people. Once in England, she finds that the village doesn't appear on any map and the local authorities deny the existence of the village. Any person who can provide information on this subject suddenly disappears or becomes deceased. In her quest, she is thwarted by a secret society that does everything to hide the truth behind the actual events. Closely followed by this society, her journey takes her to the Aral Sea in Kazakhstan, a Tibetan monastery at Mount Everest and a secret power plant in Nigeria. Will she ever find the real reason behind the deaths of the elderly people?
